BETTING LIGHT ON LEONARD'S SCRAP FRIDAY

Rocky Kansas Gets Chance at Glory in Tackling the Titleholder.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Champion Benny Leonard and Challenger Rocky Kansas are putting in mighty hard licks in training for their battle in the Garden Friday evening. The champion, as usual, is going about his work in a business-like manner, and that he will be at his best and at weight when the day of the battle arrives is certain.

In Buffalo, where Kansas lives and made his reputation, sporting men who have always considered him a potential lightweight champion are betting that he will earn the decision over Leonard, but the odds are naturally asking odds, and the betting to date has been very light. Bison City sports declare that they will pack a ton of money to New York when they arrive to cheer their favorite on, and that all the Leonard money in sight will be covered before the bell calls the men into action.

Kansas is declared to be the type of fighting man that always puts up a good bout. He is a rough and ready mixer, can take a lot of punishment and deals out stunning blows with either hand.

That his rushing style will bother Leonard, none of the title holder's admirers believe, for Benny has always liked an opponent to come to him, the faster the better.

The bout with Kansas is the first of a series which Leonard plans engaging in during which he will meet every man who has a right to try for the championship. The champion wants to make a big clean-up before spring, and bar accidents, looks like a money maker is offered him.

CONNIE MACK TELLS OF HIS UNSIGNED PLAYERS

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announces he has sixteen of his players signed for the coming season, with thirteen backword. The pitchers who have signed are Charlie Ebersole, Bryan Harris, Bob Hasty, Bryan Harrison, Fred Heilmach, Frank Loftus, Jimmy O'Neill, Bill Plerson and Jimmy Sullivan.

The infielders are Johnny Walker, Bill Barrett, Frank Brzill, Jimmy Dykes and Bill Maitland.

Those still unsigned are Catcher Furman, Pitchers Moore, Naylor, Rommel and Keefe, Infielders Hauser, Galloway and Scheerer, and Outfielders Tully Walker, Welsh, Witt, Miller and McGowan.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PRESS LEADS BOWLING TYPOS

National Capital Press is leading the Typothetae Duckpin League with a handsome margin over the runner-up Judd & Detweiler.

Here is the standing up to date: National Capital Press, won 23 and lost 10; Judd & Detweiler, 22 and 10; Gibson Bros., 23 and 16; Columbia Printing Company, 21 and 15; National Publishing Company, 21 and 13; Randall Co., 17 and 19; L. M. Thayer, 17 and 19; Brewood, 14 and 22; J. D. Milans, 13 and 26; Doing Printing Company, 9 and 30.

SMOKY JOE WOOD WILL PLAY REGULARLY NOW

Now that Elmer Smith, the home-run shooter, formerly of the Indians, has been shunted along to Boston via the trade medium, Smoky Joe Wood, one-time star pitcher, will be the regular right fielder for Tris Speaker's combination. Wood since he took to outfielding has been alternating with Smith in right field for Cleveland.

May Play Again.

Benny Kauff, drummed out of organized baseball, may play sandlot baseball this summer around New York.

LANIGAN'S LADS VISIT HERE FOR THREE BASKET GAMES

By BRYAN MORSE.

"Pop" Lanigan and his versatile Virginians will week-end in Washington. Sounds like a notice from the Bingville Bugle or the Charlottesville Progress. But it isn't. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday the genial "Pop," with eight or nine, or perhaps ten, University of Virginia basketers, will consume steaks, chops, and other good things and in addition will play Catholic University, Galaudet College, and George Washington in order. It will be a fairly tough assignment for the old boy and his gang, but, according to the dope, the Virginians will be well able to take care of themselves.

The coming of Virginia's teams is always welcome in Washington. Lanigan, especially, has a host of friends, and aside from being the best long-distance tenderloin steak consumer south of the Mason and Dixon line, "Pop" is the nestor of Virginia's sports.

Recently tendered a ten-year contract, the longest ever offered to an athlete coach at any institution, Lanigan can expect to spend the remainder of his days in his chateau in Charlottesville. He coaches basketball, track, boxing, wrestling and fencing.

Yes, he does all of these things, makes a first-class job of it and still finds time to wield a mean maulie and a nifty niblock over a golf course.

"Pop" Lanigan is what might be called an institution. He is part and parcel of the University of Virginia. In addition to coaching major and minor sports he has summer camp in Maine, and for all his years is the peppiest of Virginia's products.

The University of Virginia team with Carrington, Hankins, Oppie, Mahood and Sexton, a very even combination, plays Catholic University at Brookland on Thursday night.

Gallaudet is met at Kendall Green on Friday night and George Washington is played in the Central Coliseum on Saturday night. Outside of these three engagements Virginia will have nothing to do during the week end.

Catholic University and George Washington are meeting stiff opposition tonight. The Brooklanders entertain the Carnegie Tech outfit at Brookland while George Washington takes on the Johns Hopkins Medical School team in the coliseum. Saturday night Georgetown is considerable interest is being shown in the George Washington University basketball tournament to be staged at the Central Coliseum, February 21 and 22.

Twelve of the crack schoolboy quints in this section of the country have been invited to participate. The entries of Georgetown Preps, Gonzaga, Loyola, Central High, Eastern High, Tech, Western, and Business have been received.

It is expected that the Army and Navy Prep, Alexandria High, Episcopal, and one or two other school-boy teams will enter. Not more than twelve teams will compete and the tournament will be run off in two days.

Play will start promptly at 1 p. m. on February 21, and six games will be run off, starting on the hour. The semi-final rounds will be played beginning at 10 a. m. on February 22 and the final on February 22 at 3 p. m.

The week will be a busy one for Catholic University. The Brooklanders came off a tough trip through the North and will be called upon to meet three unusually fast teams. The Carnegie Tech team, Virginia, and the Navy, all in five days, will force the Brooklanders all the way.

Catholic University feels the loss of "Pop" Fosce, Mike Dunn, and "Reds" Gleason this year. With the combination broken the Brooklanders find it difficult to get into their accustomed style of play.

Coach Fred Rice has done unusually well although the team has had to stand considerable shifting in order to get offensive strength. This has showed "Ace" Lynch into forward where he is performing just as creditably as he did at guard.

Lynch appears to be the most versatile basketball in the section as he has played center, guard and forward in the last two seasons.

Silents to Play.

The Capital Silents play the Demolishers tonight in Gonzaga Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

WASHINGTON ARROWS PLAY TWO COURT GAMES

The Washington Arrow basketers will play a double header at the Palace gym tomorrow night. The preliminary between the Arrow girls and Hyattsville high school sextette will begin at 7:30 p. m. Following this contest the Aloysius Big Five will take the floor against the Washington Arrows. These two teams tied in their series last season, the Arrows being the only District team except the champion Yankees to administer a defeat to the Eye streeters. The visitors will present their strongest lineup in order to secure a decisive victory in using Follard-McNancy, and Duffy for their attack. The Arrow team will send in Nash, Vineberg and Shalin to carry the local team through, while Manager Quant feels confident that with Seltzer, Kislick, McAllister and Hayden available for guard duty that the visitors will have their hands full to break into the scoring column. Further, the visitors will be handicapped by the small court and one on which they have not appeared before.

After almost a week's layoff the high schools start up their titular series today. Western meets Eastern in the Central Coliseum while Business and Central will not play. Principal R. A. Mauer, of Central, asked a postponement out of respect to one of Central's pupils who died as a result of injuries received in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster.

TERRIER CLUB TO HOLD SHOW HERE MARCH 11

Chairman Atkinson Expects 150 Entries for Exhibit at New Ebbitt.

The cute little Boston terrier is to have another chance to show off before Washingtonians this season when the Washington Boston Terrier Club stages its second annual bench show, March 2, at the New Ebbitt. Ninety entries were received for last season's show, held at the Wardman Park hotel, and R. H. Atkinson, chairman of the bench show committee, expects fully 150 entries for this year's exhibition.

Premium lists will be available Saturday, February 11, at 2130 P street, office of the treasurer, Dr. W. P. Collins. More than $1,000 in special prizes will be awarded winners in the show.

Entries close February 24, and under the rules of the American Kennel Club, no entries will be accepted after that date.

The officers of the Washington Boston Terrier Club are S. J. Held, president; R. C. Birney, vice president; Dr. W. P. Collins, treasurer, and J. J. Drury, secretary.

HENSHAW AND KELCHNER IN CUE MATCH TONIGHT

Sergeant Ralph N. Henshaw, District pocket billiard champion, who won his title recently in the Grand Central tournament, will meet George Kelchner, a former champion, in an exhibition match of 100 balls tonight at the Grand Central, play starting at 8 o'clock.

The experts will play 300 points altogether, with a second block of 100 points to be contested tomorrow night, and another Thursday night.

At one of the matches, Henshaw will be presented with the Grand Central diamond studded medal emblematic of the city championship.

CHAMPION GREENLEAF PLAYS HERE TOMORROW

Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiard champion, will be seen at Sherman's tomorrow and Thursday when he will play afternoon and evening with Larry Stootenberg, a crack performer.

The champion is in fine form at present, having recently defended his title against Walter Wood. He will meet Tony Hueston in New York next month in a championship match.

Play will start in the afternoon matches at 2:30 o'clock and in the evening at 8:15 o'clock. An exhibition of fancy and trick shots will be given after each match.

Tigers' Claws Out.

The Tiger Midgets want games with 85 to 90-pound basketball teams. Challengers should phone North 224 between 5 and 6 p. m.

O'REILLY GETS BACK TO SEE HIS TEAM WIN

Hilltoppers Grab Seventh Win as Coach Sees Them First Time.

Georgetown's basketball team, in hanging up its seventh straight win of the season against West Virginia University, welcomed Coach John D. O'Reilly, who has been seriously ill for many weeks.

O'Reilly managed to get up to the Hilltop last night and saw his quintet defeat West Virginia by 27 to 15 in a clever exhibition. Georgetown students gave O'Reilly a warm welcome, as it was the first time since Thanksgiving Day that the coach had made an appearance.

Paul Florence went the limit on the West Virginians, and it was due to his speedy floor work and basket shooting that the Hilltoppers got the edge on the visitors.

Georgetown found sturdy opposition throughout and displayed all kinds of speed on the floor. Saturday night the Hilltoppers will try for their eighth straight win of the season against the University of Kentucky quintet.

Kanawha Reserves Win.

The Kanawha Prep Reserves invaded Hyattsville last night and defeated the strong Company F team of the latter place, 18 to 11. Kirchner and Laifsky scored twelve of the Kanawha's points.

Celery is recognized as a year round relish, provided you can get it, and lettuce will not be ruined by serving it with Roquefort dressing.

Subject of suitable space between twin beds occupied almost as much time as height of pigeon loft above diplomatic silk hats.

Finally agreed that there doesn't have to be any twins in order to have twin beds, but said chunks of furniture are handy things to have around in case twins should arrive unexpectedly like company for Sunday dinner.

Nothing unimportant topic which had high forehead twinkling ahead of schedule concerned buggy whips on Fords. Decided against under section fifteen of the cruelty to animals code.

Peace provenders voted in favor of ham in ham sandwiches. Didn't say how thick slice should be but clearly indicated there should be some evidence of ham.

Two-layer club sandwiches advocated so long as nations are not at the fighting front.

In action all mess sergeants will build three-story clubfoot recipe with liberal ration of mayonnaise, white of chicken, sliced bacon or substitute, and fresh green lettuce or equivalent.

That's only part of what the pieces conferees tossed off in ten clocks. More and worse tomorrow, if possible.

DEFEATS HIS BROTHER FOR BALKLINE TITLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Edgar T. Appleby put aside his family feelings last night and defeated his brother, Francis S. Appleby, in the final match for the national amateur 18.2 balkline championship at the Crescent Athletic Club. The score was 300 points for Edgar to 194 for Francis. The new champion had high runs of 51, 48 and 34, with an average of 12, while his opponent averaged 8.24, with high runs of 37, 34 and 29.

Will Play Tonight.

Tonight's game on the new Palace floor will bring together the Kanawha Preps and the Epiphany Center quint. The church team is traveling along at a smooth clip and expects to give the Kanawhas a merry battle.
